Topics

- Brief history of Dewey
- Classifying with Dewey
- Structure of Dewey
- Building numbers

Brief History of Classification

- Classified by shelf location
- Continuous reclassification because of collection growth
- Specific to each library

Melvil Dewey

- Noticed a lack of efficiency and a waste of time and money
- A Classification and Subject Index for Cataloging and Arranging the Books and Pamphlets of a Library was published anonymously in 1876– only 44 pages long
 - Not based on shelf location
 - Could be used at any library

- Dewey participated in the first 12 editions.
- Renamed Dewey Decimal Classification with the 13th ed. (1932)
- The last widely published print version, the 23nd ed., was published in 2011 (4 volumes)
- The abridged version was last published in 2012, as the 15th ed.

- Available online as WebDewey and Abridged WebDewey
 - Updated continuously
- A new print-on-demand option is available as of January 2020
 - Updated annually
 - In 4 volumes

- Melvil Dewey wanted to provide intellectual order and physical location.
- He wanted to group like subjects together, but also have the overall scheme in what he called the “order of knowledge.”
- The classes that Dewey came up with originally are still relevant.

Summaries

First Summary The Ten Main Classes

- 000 Computer science, information & general works
- 100 Philosophy & psychology
- 200 Religion
- 300 Social sciences
- 400 Language
- 500 Natural sciences & mathematics
- 600 Technology (Applied sciences)
- 700 Arts & recreation
- 800 Literature

- DDC is a system based on notation
 - Set of symbols used to denote classes in a classification
 - Used to reveal relationships among subjects
- Expressed in Arabic numbers only
 - 0-9
- Gives the unique meaning of the class, and its relation to other classes
- Can expand without disturbing topics already classed

Ten main classes

- Mutually exclusive (can only be in one at a time)
- Sometimes we have to choose between two perfectly good numbers
 - Where are similar items in your collection?

Structural hierarchy

- Arranged from broadest to narrowest
- All topics (aside from the ten main classes) are subordinate to and part of all the broader topics
- Notes regarding the nature of a class hold true for all the subordinate classes
- Hierarchical notes are usually only given once

Broader to Narrower

Uses Arabic numerals 0 to 9 on each level of the hierarchy

300 Social sciences

330 Economics

332 Financial economics

332.4 Money

332.41 Value of money

332.414 Factors affecting fluctuations in value

Classifying with DDC

- Determine the subject
- Determine the disciplinary focus
- Determine the approach or form

Determining the Subject

- Look for clues in title (subtitle may explain)
- Consult table of contents or chapter headings
- Consult preface, introduction and foreword
- Scan the text
- Look at bibliographic entries and index
- Find reviews (if nothing else)

Determine the Discipline

- Classed in the discipline for which it is intended, not from which it is derived

Controlling garden pests organically written by a zoologist would be classed either under garden pests or organic gardening, but NOT under zoology

More Than One Subject

- Rule of Application—Class a work dealing with interrelated subjects with the subject that is being acted upon. Takes precedence over any other rule

A work dealing with Shakespeare's influence on Keats is classified with Keats.

Book with Two Subjects

- If one subject receives fuller treatment, class with that subject
- “FIRST OF TWO RULE”—If two subjects receive equal treatment, class the work with the subject whose number comes first in the schedule

A history dealing equally with U.S. and Japan, classed as 952, because 952 precedes 973 in schedules

Sometimes the schedule might tell you not to use the first of two rule. Notice, at 598, the note tells you to ignore the first of two rule and class a work on birds and mammals in 599 not 598.

598

598 *Aves

Class here birds, land birds; ornithology

Class specific kinds of land birds in 598.5–598.9; class comprehensive works on warm-blooded vertebrates in 599; class interdisciplinary works on species of domestic birds in 636.5

SUMMARY

598.072 3	Descriptive research
.163–.176	[Beneficial and aquatic birds]
.3	Gruiformes, Charadriiformes, Ciconiiformes, Phoenicopteriformes
.4	Miscellaneous orders of water birds
.5	Palaeognathae
.6	Galliformes and Columbiformes
.7	Miscellaneous orders of land birds
.8	Passeriformes
.9	Falconiformes, Strigiformes, Caprimulgiformes

“Rule of Three”

Three or more subjects should be classed with the first highest number that includes all three subjects.

A history of Portugal (946.9), Sweden (948.5) and Greece (949.5) is classed with the history of Europe (940).

More Than One Discipline

- If there is an interdisciplinary number given in the schedule use it
- If there is not an interdisciplinary number use the number for the discipline which is given the fullest treatment

598 *Aves

Class here birds, land birds; ornithology

Class specific kinds of land birds in 598.5–598.9; class comprehensive works on warm-blooded vertebrates in 599; class interdisciplinary works on species of domestic birds in 636.5

Included in Relative Index

- Indexed terms in the headings and notes of schedules and tables
- Terms with literary warrant for concepts in the schedules or tables
- Some built numbers
- Terms for broad concepts covered in Manual notes
- Some proper names (geographic names like countries, states and provinces, names of counties in the U.S., names of capital cities and other important municipalities, and names of important features)

Not in Index

- All names of persons, cities, organizations, minerals, plants, animals, chemical compounds, drugs, manufactured articles, etc. (Names are included selectively)
- Phrases beginning with the adjectival form of countries, languages, nationalities, and religions (English poetry, French architecture, Mexican cooking)
- Phrases containing general concepts represented by standard subdivisions such as education and history (Art education, History of science, Automobile maintenance)

- If a specific term is not in the index, the first recourse should be to look under the index listing for the broader class or term that contains the topic

Charles Dickens is not listed in the Relative Index; the classifier should instead look under Authors.

What terms should we look up for the following subjects?

- Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of the United States
- John Lennon
- Santa Claus
- Babe Ruth (the baseball player)
- Black widow spider
- AZT (the anti-AIDS drug)

Manual

- Gives advice on classifying in difficult areas
- Explains the policies and practices of the DDC Division at the Library of Congress

Summaries

The summaries help you understand the overall structure of DDC. The three outlines of the scheme are given in order of increasing specificity and detail.

- First summary--Ten main classes
- Second summary--The hundred divisions (the ten main classes divided into ten branches called divisions)
- Third summary--Each of the hundred divisions divided into ten parts (one thousand entries called sections)

Entries

- Should always read numbers in terms of their hierarchy
- The first three numbers appear only once. They are repeated at the top of the page where the subdivision continues
- Subordinate numbers appear with the decimal point (the first three numbers are understood)

Entries

Numbers in Square Brackets

Any number in square brackets is not valid and should not be used.

- Numbers that have never been assigned [008] [Never assigned]
- Numbers that are currently unassigned but were once valid. Contain a note stating when it was last used
[007] [Unassigned]
Most recently used in Edition 16

Entries

Numbers in Square Brackets

- Vacated numbers--Moved to a different location for the current edition
627[.92] Navigation aids
Relocated to 623.893
- Discontinued numbers--No longer used because the concept has been moved to a more general number or has been dropped entirely
[775] Digital photography
Number discontinued; class in 770

Entries

Numbers in Parenthesis

- At certain places in the schedules options are provided to accommodate cultural differences

330(.159) Socialist and related school

– (Optional number; prefer 335)

330.91 Geographic treatment (Economic geography) by areas, regions, places in general (Option: Class in 910.13301)

Standing Room Entries

- Provide a location for topics with relatively few items written about them, but whose literature may grow in the future
- Standard subdivisions cannot be added to topics in standing room, nor are there other number building techniques allowed

641.229 Nongrape wine

Including fermented cider

Some Definitions

- Base number = number you add to, when directed by schedule or when adding from tables
- Built number = number not directly available in schedule, but already “built” for you in the index
- Period number = segment sometimes available to be added, indicating time period
- Segmentation = logical break points to make a classification number shorter; indicated by “/” in OCLC & by “ ’ ” in CIP

Review--Steps to Follow When Assigning Dewey Call Numbers

- Use index for subject & possible built numbers
- ALWAYS look up index number in schedules for further direction/explanation
- Use tables to add to number, if directed or desired

Number building

- When truncating numbers, truncate at a division, not just after a certain number of digits
- Never leave a 0 on the end when longer than three digits
- Standard subdivisions can be added to a main class or a division
- Schedules often tell you to add from another place in the schedules

Adding Standard Subdivisions for Classes

- Unless you are given other instructions, the terminal zeros must be dropped from the class numbers before adding the standard subdivision

Encyclopedia of science= $500 + 03 = 500 - 00 + 03 = 503$

- This doesn't work for 000, 200 and 300. They give directions on how to add the subdivisions. Check your number to make sure it doesn't belong to something else

Dictionary of social science= $300 - 00 + 03 = 303$. This number has already been assigned to social processes. The summary tells you that standard subdivisions are added to 300. The correct number for a dictionary of social sciences would be 300.3

The standard subdivisions have been built into the schedules at 503-506

Classification Number Structure

- Most:
 - Discipline (0-9) → subject subdivision → geographic/time period → form of presentation (T1) 641.5/942/05
- Literature and language:
 - Discipline → original language → form → period of composition 851 ./1
- Generalities (dictionaries, encyclopedias, library science):
 - Form → language or place 038./81

Some Don'ts

- Don't combine more than one standard subdivision (T1) unless specifically told to
- Follow precedence tables when doing so
- Don't add standard subdivision if redundant, e.g., adding -09 + to 973
- Don't add standard subdivisions to standing room numbers

When More than One Number Works

- In what field of study will this item be used?
- For whom is this work intended?
- Local practice (try to be consistent; it confuses patrons when similar subjects are not shelved together)

300 vs. 600

Many topics can be discussed from either a social or technological point of view.
